English 1102: Remembering the Sea – Nostalgia and Adventure (Draft)
Summer 2016, Georgia Institute of Technology – Writing and Communication Program

Syllabus – Course Objectives and Policies

Sections
• LS2, MW 10am-11:45am
• QUP, Online

Professor: J. Stephen Addcox, PhD
Email: james.addcox@lmc.gatech.edu

COURSE DESCRIPTION AND OBJECTIVES
This course will help students to hone their abilities in multimodal (WOVEN) communication through an examination and discussion of nautical adventure narratives. Adventure stories set on the open sea have long been a staple of storytelling. In this class we will focus our attention on nineteenth-century stories that nostalgically envision the sea as a site for particular kinds of (masculine) adventure. Readings will include novels from Robert Louis Stevenson and Edgar Allan Poe, as well as poetry and other nineteenth-century sources. From these beginnings we will trace how nostalgic representations of the sea have found their way into more contemporary narrative forms, including film, comics, and video games like Assassin’s Creed IV: Black Flag and Sunless Sea. Assignments will include a semester long blog project which students will use to present both short reflections and longer essays, a branching narrative design project, and a digital archive assignment.

Required Texts and Materials
• WOVEN Textbook
• Sunless Sea (video game, available via http://www.failbettergames.com/sunless/)
• Other readings will be provided via T-Square or other online sources

APPROACH TO THE COURSE
This course will be structured primarily like a seminar, in which students are expected to take a proactive role in shaping the class discussion and focus. As a class that is designed to hone your communication skills, class meetings are a key component in the process of further developing your written, oral, visual, electronic and non-verbal communication. Consequently, class meetings may involve discussion, in-class writing and assignments, student-led presentations, workshops and peer review, online writing and publication. Throughout the semester, students should be looking for ways to draw connections between the varied texts and concepts that we will be studying in order to develop their capacity to create detailed, informative, and insightful approaches to the course assignments specifically and communication generally.

EXPECTED STUDENT OUTCOMES
In addition to course outcomes for all English 1102 courses listed in the Common Policies section, this course includes the following outcomes; students should be able to:
• Articulate and explain historical and contemporary memory theories
• Create connections between fictional works from various genres and historical contexts
• Multitask with audio/visual and textual communication
• Relate the concepts of memory and testimony to criminal justice and the legal system
SUMMARY OF COURSE UNITS AND PROJECTS

Semester-Long Projects/Assessments

1) Response Blog
   Each student will create a WordPress blog via the blogs.iac.gatech.edu site. The blog should reflect a degree of creativity and visual design, including an engaging title (blog titles should include the student’s last name in parentheses). Students will write 6 short (500 words) posts over the course of the semester on a variety of readings.

2) Piazza Discussions
   In order to facilitate discussion between both the on-site and distance students in the class, we will use Piazza as a way to develop discussions and interaction based on the readings. At the beginning of the semester, each student should make sure that they can access the Piazza page for this class. Each week, students should post at least 3-5 brief thoughts responding either to the readings or class discussion, two of these thoughts should respond directly to another student’s comment.

3) Reading Quizzes
   Regular reading quizzes will be given throughout the semester so that students can demonstrate their familiarity with and knowledge of the course materials.

Unit I: Nostalgia and the Fantastic Sea
   Texts: Coleridge, “The Rime of the Ancient Mariner” (1817); Poe, Arthur Gordon Pym (1838)
   Project 1: Multimodal Essay [Written, Visual, Electronic]
      In the first major project of the semester, students will compose a narrative and analysis relating a story about the ocean or the sea. The story can either be drawn from personal experience (something that happened during a trip to the beach, for example) or it can relate an experience of someone you know. The narrative should evoke particular details that reflect how/why the ocean is important to the story. First, students will make an audio recording of either themselves or their subject relating the story verbally. Next, students will craft an essay that compares their recorded narrative to one of the texts from the class.

Unit II: Pirates and Adventure
   Texts: Robert Louis Stevenson, Treasure Island (1883); F. Whymper, from The Sea: Its Stirring Story of Adventure, Peril, and Heroism (1880, selections), Sunless Sea (2015)
   Project 2: Branching Narrative [Written, Visual, Electronic]
      The second major project will require students to develop a multimodal essay that draws on research that they have conducted using the library’s resources. Drawing from one of the texts we have examined during the semester, students will write an essay that examines that text’s conception of the sea in terms of space and time. Visual design will be a crucial component of the assignment, and students are encouraged to consider images, maps, and other forms of data visualization as ways to incorporate design into their essays. This essay will be submitted via students’ blogs.
Unit III: Remembering the Sea in Contemporary Media

Project 3: Archive Project and Presentation [Written, Oral, Visual, Electronic, Non-Verbal]

In the final unit of the semester, we will examine how nautical narratives have been adapted, translated, and appropriated for other forms of media. In the same way, the final project tasks you with creating an imaginative archive based on a nautical text (broadly interpreted). As a result, your project will also require you to consider how to adapt elements from a narrative into a different form. Throughout the semester we have seen how nautical travel and narrative often depend upon a variety of accoutrements, including maps, weapons, journals, clothing, and tools (among many others). In this project, your “archive” will consist of 3-5 items that represent narrative elements from a nautical narrative of your choice. While your narrative need not be something we’ve read in class, if you choose something that isn’t on the syllabus, you should be prepared to offer a clear explanation for your choice on the selection survey.

ASSIGNMENT REQUIREMENTS

Throughout the semester, students should keep in mind that they will be archiving and presenting selections of their work for the final portfolio. As such, be sure to maintain copies of all drafts, notes, and final products throughout the semester. Use track changes or similar functionality to document a project’s evolution over time. Your final product for each assignment should represent professional level work that is polished and presentable.

WOVEN COMMUNICATION

In keeping with the WOVEN focus of the Writing and Communication Program at Georgia Tech, students will be expected to develop their communication skills through written, oral, visual, electronic, and non-verbal scenarios. This class will pay particular attention to the following areas:

- Written – Argument organization, evidence selection, and clarity
- Oral – Decisive delivery, responsive discussion, and striking a professional and formal style of address
- Visual – Clean and efficient design, effective spatial organization of information
- Electronic – Using brevity to make a point succinctly, considering the uncertainty of audience in web-based communication
- Non-verbal – The importance of professional body language in presentation, attentiveness and engagement as an audience member

LATE AND MISSED ASSIGNMENTS

Late work is highly discouraged and will only be permitted under extraordinary circumstances and with advance notice (except in the case of extreme emergencies). If a student feels that they are likely to complete an assignment late, they should contact me in order to establish a timeline for completion. Without prior permission, late work will receive a half-letter grade penalty for each day beyond the due date that it remains unfinished. In-class assignments and presentations that are scheduled on the same day as an officially sanctioned university absence may be made up, but students should confer with me in advance of their absence.

APPOINTMENTS

It is often the case that students who take the time to come to office hours find themselves benefitting from the additional feedback and discussion. Writing is a conversational act, and engaging in one-on-one conversation can help in that process. I always encourage my students to meet with me during my regular office hours, or by appointment if necessary.
ATTENDANCE

On-site students should consult the WCP Common Policies below for the class attendance requirement. Online students will satisfy the attendance requirement for the course by both watching the course lecture/discussion videos within 1-2 days of the original class meeting and by contributing to the Piazza discussions in the same week that those discussions are posted. Posts to Piazza discussions from previous weeks will not count towards online student participation. The online availability facilitates distance learning, but procrastination on watching course videos and participating in online discussions will not lead to success in this course. On-site students are not permitted to substitute class attendance with the recorded class content.

ASSESSMENT

Assignment Breakdown

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Reading Quizzes</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blog (6x33 points)</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piazza Discussion</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Project 1</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Project 2</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Project 3</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Portfolio</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOTAL:</td>
<td>1000 points</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Course Grades - A: 895-1000 points; B: 795-894; C: 695-794; D: 595-694; F: 0-594

COURSE POLICIES

You can access these common Writing and Communication Program policies here: <http://b.gatech.edu/1KHbjmL>. You are required to acknowledge that you have read, understood, and intend to comply with these policies. Georgia Tech’s Writing and Communication Program has common, program-wide policies regarding these areas:

- General Education Outcomes
- Learning Outcomes
- Evaluation Equivalencies
- Evaluation Rubric
- Attendance
- Participation in Class
- Non-discrimination
- Communication Center
- Accommodations
- Academic Misconduct
- Syllabus Modifications
- Week Preceding Final Exams (WPFE)
- Reflective Portfolio
Daily Schedule – Reading and Writing Assignments
NOTE: All reading and writing tasks are due on the day they appear on the syllabus. This schedule of assignments is subject to change; it is your responsibility to keep informed of any updates, including when you are absent.

Unit I: Nostalgia and the Fantastic Sea
Week One (May 16 - 20)
M  - Introduction, Syllabus Review
   - Setting up WordPress & Piazza
   - In-Class reading & discussion: Rudyard Kipling, “The Sea and the Hills”
W  - Project 1 Assigned
   - Coleridge, “Rime of the Ancient Mariner” (Quiz 1)
      - Blog Post 1 due Friday @ 11:55pm

Week Two (May 23 - 27)
M  - Poe, Arthur Gordon Pym, Chapters 1-9 (Quiz 2)
   - Nicholas Dames, Introduction to Amnesiac Selves
   - Assignment workshop, analyzing a verbal narrative
W  - Poe, Arthur Gordon Pym, Chapters 10-13 (Quiz 3)
      - Blog Post 2 due Friday @ 11:55pm

Week Three (May 30 – June 3)
M  Memorial Day: No Class Meeting
W  - Poe, Arthur Gordon Pym, Chapters 14-end
      - Project 1 Peer Review (Final Revision due Friday @ 11:55pm on T-Square)

Unit II: Pirates and Adventure
Week Four (June 6 - 10)
M  - Robert Louis Stevenson, Treasure Island, Chapters 1-10
   - Project 2 Assigned
W  - Stevenson, Treasure Island, Chapters 11-15 (Quiz 4)
   - Daniel Defoe, from A General History of the Pyrates (skim Introduction and read Ch. 3)
   - Using the library to conduct research
      - Blog Post 3 due Friday @ 11:55pm

Week Five (June 13 - 17)
M  All students view online lecture, no on-campus meeting.
   - Stevenson, Treasure Island, Chapters 16-25 (Quiz 5)
   - Starkey, “The Origins and Regulation of Eighteenth-Century British Privateering”
   - Visual Design in Electronic Media
W  All students view online lecture, no on-campus meeting.
   - Stevenson, Treasure Island, Chapters 26-27
      - Blog Post 4 due Friday @ 11:55pm

Week Six (June 20-24)
M  - F. Whymper, from The Sea: Its Stirring Story of Adventure (Quiz 6)
W  - Stevenson, Treasure Island, Chapters 28-end (Quiz 7)
      - Project 2 Peer Review (Final Revision due Friday @ 11:55pm on T-Square)
Unit III: Remembering the Sea in Contemporary Media

Week Seven (June 27 – July 1) [June 28: Withdrawal Deadline, 4pm ET]
M  - Master and Commander, in-class film screening
    - Begin playing Sunless Sea
    - Distance students view film and contribute to Piazza discussion
W  - Finish Master and Commander
    - Discussion, Sunless Sea (Quiz 8)
    - Project 3 Assigned
    - Blog Post 5 Due Friday @ 11:55pm

Week Eight (July 4 – 8)
M  No Class, School Holiday
W  All students view online lecture, no on-campus meeting
    - Hugo Pratt, Corto Maltese: The Ballad of the Salt Sea (Quiz 9)
    - Archives and Artifacts
    - Blog Post 6 Due Friday @ 11:55pm

Week Nine (July 11 – 15)
M  - 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea (1954) discussion (view film outside of class) (Quiz 10)
    - John Mack, from The Sea: A Cultural History (Concepts of the Sea)
W  - Presentation workshop

Week Ten (July 18 - 22)
M  - Project 3 Workday and Conferences, no on-site class
W  - Project 3 Presentations
    Submit Reflective essay, Photos, and Presentation materials to T-Square on Friday by 11:55pm EDT ***

Week Eleven (July 25 - 29) – Portfolio Work Week
M  - Portfolio discussion
    - Selecting contents for the portfolio

Week Twelve (July 27 - 31) Exam Week
Portfolio Due to T-Square on August 1 (Monday) by 10am EDT.