

Call for Papers

75TH ANNUAL GEORGIA TECH

Protective Relaying Conference

Georgia Tech Global Learning Center, Atlanta, Georgia
May 4-6, 2022

2022 Clayton Griffin Student Paper Award

Additionally, the planning committee is accepting student papers for the 2022 Clayton Griffin Student Paper Award, sponsored by General Electric, Georgia Tech ECE, and Georgia Power Company. The winner of the award will receive a plaque, complimentary registration to the conference, hotel accommodations, and a $1,000 prize. The first author of the paper must be a full time student at an accredited university and the winner is expected to attend the conference and present the winning paper. A short bio of the competing student is required to be included in the paper.

Prospective student authors should follow these submission guidelines:

Deadline: Student papers must be submitted to the conference site as described above for the regular abstracts. The papers should be clearly marked as “student paper”. The site for the student papers will remain open until January 31, 2022.

Student Papers: Papers should be written primarily by a student, and the topic should be related to power system protection. Student papers are limited to four pages only and should be in IEEE two-column format with font size no smaller than 11. A short bio of the student is required to be included.

Presentation: The winner will be announced by February 28, 2022 and will be expected to present his or her paper at the 2022 Georgia Tech Protective Relaying Conference (presentation 30 minutes plus 5 minutes Q&A) in order to receive the award.

International participants are strongly encouraged to submit an abstract and/or enter the Clayton Griffin Student Paper Award competition.

If you need additional information, contact Prof Sakis Meliopoulos at sakis.m@gatech.edu or Janine Lyn at 404-894-2964.

Thank you very much for your anticipated contribution to the Georgia Tech Protective Relaying Conference!

The 2022 conference dates are May 4-6, 2022. We look forward to seeing you next year!